Grizzly Hoopsters Grab 68-54 Win Over Nevada

By DAN FOLEY
Kaimin Sports Editor

The Grizzly basketball team ended a two-and-a-half month MSU sports victory drought last night when it toppled the University of Nevada Wolfpack 68-54 in the opening game of the season.

The Grizzlies never trailed in the game, which saw the first win for an MSU varsity team since the football squad won its season opener against the University of British Columbia Sept. 14.

Senior forward Keith Law paced the Tips with 14 points, 12 of them in the second half. Senior guard Tim Aldrich and sophomore guard Gary Peck were close behind with 13 each.

Wolfpack center Bill Robinson, a 25-point per game man last year, paced Nevada with 20 markers, but made only seven of 26 field goal attempts. He was the only man in the double figures for Nevada.

Peck Scores First

The Grizzlies jumped into the lead on the opening tipoff when Gary Peck took a pass from Tim Aldrich and put up a lay-up. Wolfpack forward Nap Montgomery was called for goal tending on the play and the Tips had their first score of the season.

The Grizzlies quickly moved into a 15-8 lead, but saw the Wolfpack come back to tie 15-15 midway in the first half.

That was as close as Nevada came as the Grizzlies, with Peck and Aldrich hitting six points each, grabbed a 30-20 lead with 3:04 left in the half.

The Tips led at halftime 32-25.

Early in the second period the MSU lead varied from five to 10 points until Law led a rally that pushed the margin to 61-43. Law hit three jump shots and two free throws and controlled the backboards during the rally.

From that point the Grizzlies, with substitutes playing, eased to the victory.

Despite the fact that MSU controlled only one more rebound, 56-55, than the Wolfpack, the Grizzlies had 25 more shots at the basket.

The Tips hit on 25 of 82 attempts for only a .305 percentage. Nevada was successful on 20 of 57 attempts for a .357 mark.

In the free throw department MSU had 18 of 30 for .600 and Nevada 14-32 for .436.

Committee Functions Explained by Jones

Rick Jones, ASMSU president, explained the function of Planning Board to new members at the board's meeting yesterday. Jones said the committee is one of the most active and energetic on campus, because it handles the long-range planning for student government.

Bob Worcester, chairman of Student Life Committee, an ad hoc committee of ASMSU, explained the plan of action for that committee.

By attempting to find out what the social regulations on campus are, the committee intends to find out the purpose of these rules.

It was suggested that a vote be taken to see how the students feel about these rules and regulations.

Joan Watts, Planning Board member, said a vote should not be taken until this has been thoroughly discussed with the deans.

"We must realize whom we are dealing with," she said.

Jones said that opinions of students must be taken into consideration and that some students may not want to have any changes right now.

"It is fine to go to other campuses and see how they feel about regulations, and how social regulations are treated on these campuses, but MSU students must thoroughly understand the situation on this campus first, Jones said.

The rules must be made to fit this campus and not be taken from another campus and applied to MSU, he concluded.

University Freshman Given Recognition for Saving Life

An MSU student has been awarded an American Red Cross certificate and pin for her quick thinking which resulted in saving a boy's life. Sandra Fopp, freshman from Great Falls, was given the award "in recognition of her quick thinking and action which saved the life" of 10-year-old William Keaster last Aug. 7.

The boy had been swimming in a private pool in Great Falls with Miss Fopp and a friend. The two girls left the pool, thinking the boy would follow.

Realizing he wasn't coming the two girls went back to the pool and found him lying on the bottom of the pool.

The 19-year-old Miss Fopp quickly applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

The boy apparently suffered no ill effects from the accident.

The award was presented to Miss Fopp at the recent Montana Red Cross State Conference in Great Falls.

MSU J-School Granted $4,300

MSU's School of Journalism is one of 12 journalism schools receiving a grant for a summer seminar from the Newspaper Fund, Inc., New York.

The grant of approximately $4,300 is to support a summer seminar for high school teachers who have journalism responsibilities in public, private or parochial schools. Junior college teachers with similar duties may also apply.

Fellowships for summer study will be provided for teachers who wish to improve their knowledge of professional and scholastic journalism.

The program is designed to encourage better teaching of journalism, to improve the quality of school newspapers and to point out career opportunities available in journalism for talented young people.

Details of the award were worked out by Nathan B. Blumberg, dean of the School of Journalism, and Paul S. Swenson, executive director of the Newspaper Fund. The program is financed by grants from the Wall Street Journal.

Information and application forms for the 1964 fellowship may be obtained from Swenson at the Newspaper Fund, 44 Broad St., New York, N.Y., 10004. Applications must be submitted before Feb. 10, 1964.

Final Schedule Changes Possible in Two Cases

Only students who must leave early for professional employment or who have more than two final examinations on one day may have their final exam schedule changed.

Students may not take their finals early to get an earlier start going home for Christmas vacation, according to regulations adopted some years ago upon the recommendation of the deans and department chairmen.

If a student must change his exam schedule he should first get an application from the Registrar's Office, window 5, in the Business Office and the permission of his advisor and instructor.

ART EXHIBITION, SALE IN FA

An exhibition and sale of prints distributed by the deCinque Graphic Arts is being displayed on the second floor of the Fine Arts Building.

AH, THE BEAUTY OF IT — The chill of winter appears to be upon us. The frost on the trees and the smell of pulp in the air leaves an impression which won't soon be forgotten, no matter how hard we try. What's more, the U.S. Weather Bureau predicts more of the same for the rest of the week. The forecast is for highs of 20-25 degrees, lows of 10-15 and valley fog in the morning. No precipitation is forecast, although the outlook may change by this weekend. (Kaimin Photo by Jim Oset)

Student Union to Send Six To California Convention

MSU's Student Union is sending six representatives to the Student Union Regional Convention which will be held this weekend in Berkeley, Calif. The representatives are Prof. Edward Dugan, chairman of the Student Union executive board; Lynn Sparks, program council chairman; Dale Schwanke, program council vice chairman; Jim Richard, member of the Student Union executive board; Emily Melton, Student Union film chairman, and Ed Shpiel, program council games chairman.

The group will visit the University of California in Berkeley, the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco and Stanford University in Palo Alto.

Last weekend the Student Union sent five students to the University of Idaho in Moscow and Washington State University in Pullman.

The purpose of the trip was to allow the students to observe how other Student Unions are organized.

Berna Saxton, Ed Rettig, Bret Asselstine, Joan Watts and Emily Melton made the trip.

Las Vegas Art Collection To Feature Hook's Work

An MSU professor's art work will become part of the Las Vegas Art League's permanent collection. Walter Hook, of the art department, recently won honors in the League's National Art Roundup.

Mr. Hook's works were among the 51 chosen in the Art Roundup from 263 entries. His "Board of Rejects" won a blue ribbon and a purchase award.

"Board of Rejects" will hang in Gov. Grant Sawyer's Las Vegas office until the League's gallery is built.

CB Adviser Spot Vacated by Stone

Central Board is looking for a new faculty adviser to replace Albert Stone, professor of law, who resigned at the last CB meeting.

In a letter to ASMSU President Rick Jones, Mr. Stone stated that he had too many obligations conflicting with the time required for CB participation.

Mr. Stone said he regretted being unable to attend so many CB meetings this quarter and that he would miss the association with undergraduate student leaders which he enjoyed for the past six years.

A new adviser will be selected at the beginning of winter quarter.

CB AGENDA MSPA Special Events Planning Board Letters:

Jones will read a letter from Herman H. Ross, member of the staff of Gov. George Wallace of Alabama in regard to Wallace's speaking at MSU.

J-Council: A Bang, Not a Whimper

With all the best intentions, Roger Dunsmore, instructor of English, recently circulated a petition among the faculty of this university asking, in effect, for the re-establishment of Judicial Council. The petition died for two reasons: (1) Mr. Dunsmore found that Dean of Students Cogswell had dealt justly with the students involved in the incident sparking the petition and (2) faculty personnel understandably are loath to initiate something like a student J-council, believing the groundwork should be laid by students themselves, later supported by faculty.

Judicial Council was a group of students selected to review student disciplinary cases, mostly drinking infractions. It worked for a time, languished for a time, finally officially perished last year. The reason it died was that Dean Cogswell referred no cases to it. As it stands now, the only general appeals "court" is MSU's president. If disgruntled chastised offenders habitually thought of appealing their doleful plights to Pres. Johns, the result would be sheer chaos. The president is too busy to sit as judge: budgets would go un-balanced, appropriations would fall to Eastern un-asked-for, football coaches would go un-fired.

What is needed is an effective appeals court—not a paper tiger like the old J-council—made up of both students and faculty. This suggestion does not imply a deep distrust of the deans. It only implies that deans, being human, are not infallible and that a first opportunity to appeal should be provided for the men, and a second for the women (Associated Women Students can be seen as the second).

Students, working through Central Board's new Student Life Committee, should initiate the proceedings. —whw

Social Regulations: Words for the Deans

By R. DONALD McCAIG
Graduate Assistant, Drama

During the last several weeks I have talked to many young women regarding the present women's hours. Often I asked, "If you dislike them so, then why not write to the Kaimin?" I would receive a knowing look, a shrug and a comment which meant, "Sure, and then I could pack my bags and leave."

Deans Cogswell and Clow recently have commented on the issue of women's hours in the Kaimin. Dean Clow said nothing except that she was not morally responsible (and I shall comment on that later), but Dean Cogswell suggested first that dissatisfied women should take their complaints before AWS, second that there could be on this "the best of all possible campuses," no dissatisfied women (or parents for that matter) and third, he suggested that we turn off our minds and go home. The last suggestion was considered by Editor Wood in the Nov. 22 Kaimin. I shall, therefore briefly comment on the first two.

As I suggested in my first paragraph, many women on this campus have a rather unfortunate idea of the power and stature of the deans' offices, most specifically the office of the Associate Dean of Students. They feel (or many of them feel) that there exists a fantastic network of spies, lists, name-taking and punishment at the center of which sits the present dean of women whose only function in life is to weave evil plots against unsuspecting females. On her right hand is AWS, well-trained, well housebroken, clean scrubbed and impotent. Its function is to repeat pronouncements and discourage insurgents.

I have found no evidence for the existence of such a situation and believe that the deans are surely not this sort of monster. Because, however, of the secrecy surrounding their offices, and possibly for some other reasons, many of the women students are afraid of writing or voicing their complaints and feel that to complain to AWS is not only futile but dangerous. Because of the current rash of social protest in the Kaimin, it becomes obvious that even Miss Clow's mythical list could not hold all the names of the girls who dislike the present situation. There is safety in numbers and the correspondents to the Kaimin may express themselves at this time with considerably less risk than they might express themselves before AWS.

Dean Cogswell's suggestion that dissatisfied students talk to AWS is thus, somewhat unrealistic—a simple solution which I, too, would like to see implemented but one which, because of the widespread suspicion of the Dean of Women, is not about to be utilized by the women.

As for Dean Cogswell's second comment, namely that the girls and parents wish to retain women's hours, it seems somewhat obvious that there are at least a few girls who do not agree and there are at least a few parents who do not like the present system.

There may be no way of knowing just how many parents are satisfied but a secret ballot conducted by ASMSU's "Student Life" committee which included the realistic alternative of "no hours" might give us some information.

Dean Clow's statement to the effect that the Board of Regents was responsible for women's hours and that she had nothing to say to the Kaimin is, I think, both fallacious and an abnegation of the responsibility which must belong to any law enforcer. This responsibility is, of course, to explain the laws, to defend them as just, and to make explicit precisely what they are. Miss Clow has done none of these things. She has, neatly, avoided responsibility by passing the buck to the Regents and suggesting that neither she nor any other dean of women could have any effect on the adoption or changing of regulations.

This makes, I would maintain, the dean's office a considerably less potent position than it actually is. Were the deans to suggest a change in rules, I suspect that the Regents would listen.

I believe that Miss Clow does believe the rules to be justified and further believe that she may have reasons for her position. I ask her to state these reasons, to make them public, to subject them to criticism. I hope for the sake of free inquiry that she will choose to defend those rules which she does uphold and enforce. If she cannot or will not, I must feel that she is either not morally responsible for her own actions or that she refuses to allow any criticism of an office which, by its very nature, affects every student on this campus.

Frosh Squeeze Out 72-61 Victory Over Carroll in Season Opener

By DAN FOLEY
Kaimin Sports Editor
A sharp 50.9 per cent success at field goals and a 15-point second-half performance by 5-11 guard Jon King broke open a tight ball game and gave the Montana State University freshmen Cubs a 72-61 victory over the Carroll College freshmen last night. The game was the first of the season for the Cubs.

King, connecting on 10 of 14 attempts from the field, and four of six free throws, led both squads in scoring with 24 points. Two graduates of Missoula County High School, Doug Bachman and Glenn Smith, each chipped in 14 points for the win.

Carroll took the lead early and led most of the first half until Bachman hit a layup to tie the score 22-22 with 5:45 remaining in the first half. The lead saw-sawed, with the Cubs ending up on top of a 33-31 half-time score.

Carroll tied the game early in the second half, but King pushed the Cubs into a 48-38 lead with 15 minutes remaining in the game. The Cubs led by as much as 16 points in the second half.
Then Carroll guard Jim Mallard, who sat out the first 10 minutes of the second half with four fouls, put Carroll back in the game. Mallard added 9 points in the final 10 minutes to finish with a total of 21 for the night. The 6-2 guard hit 10 of 13 attempts from the field to lead his team in scoring.
Carroll chopped the lead to 64-59 with three minutes remaining, but the Cubs bounced back and stretched the lead to 11 by the game's end.

Other Carroll players hitting in the double figures were forward Dave Henry, 11, and 6-6 center Jim Gusick, 10.
Smith also led both teams in rebounds with nine and hit six of seven free throw attempts. Doug McDonald, the third of the Cubs' Missoula County High School trio, added eight points.
Montana: (72)—King 24, Bachman 14, Smith 14, McDonald 8, Grisamore 9, Metz 2, Dailey 1, and Kastelitz and Walle.
Carroll (61)—Mallard 21, Henry 11, Gusick 10, Hafer 7, Parsley 7, Browne 4, Walsh 1, and Etchart.

History Honor Society Slates Initiation, Banquet for Tonight

The Beta Psi Chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, national history honor society, will initiate new members at its meeting tonight. After the initiation, there will be a banquet at the Club Chateau. Professor Oscar J. Hammen will give a talk on his research and observations in Germany during last summer.

Michael E. Green is the new president of the MSU chapter for the current academic year. Other elected officers are: William J.

Kean, vice president; Sharon M. Smith, secretary-treasurer, and Robert Nofsinger, Jr., historian.

Any student, regardless of major, is eligible to become a member of Phi Alpha Theta if he or she has a minimum number of credits in history combined with a high standard of performance in history and other academic subjects.

The purpose of the society is to grant recognition to students who do superior work in history and to provide for a closer association between students and professors.

The MSU chapter usually has two meetings each quarter. Often, the meetings are held at the home of a member of the history faculty.

Panel to Discuss Design of Church

The significance of the architectural design of the new St. Anthony's Church will be discussed at a panel meeting tonight at 8 in the Music Recital Hall.

Participating on the panel will be the Rt. Rev. Msgr. D. P. Meade, pastor of St. Anthony's Church; O. J. Ballas, local architect; Walter Hook and Rudy Autio, both of the MSU art department. Charles Bollen, dean of the fine arts school, will preside and moderate the panel discussion.

The discussion will deal in part with the reasons for using original work by local artists in the conception of the new church at the corner of Tremont and Woodford streets.

The program is open to the public.

OAS Investigation Started

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Organization of American States launched a full-scale investigation yesterday into charges that "intervention and aggression" by Cuba in Venezuela are endangering that country's democratic institutions.

Venezuela asked the OAS to look into Cuban smuggling of arms to Venezuela, acting under the Inter-American Treaty of Reciprocal Assistance.

The OAS Council approved the Venezuelan request by a 16-0 vote, with Mexico abstaining on legal grounds. By the same vote it also empowered OAS Chairman Juan Batista de Lavalle of Peru to appoint a fact-finding committee.

The countries making up the investigating body were not announced immediately.

Reliable sources said the United States, Argentina, Colombia, Costa Rica and another country as yet unnamed would be selected.

Brazil supported Venezuela's request for an inquiry. But following the coexistence-with-Cuba line, its ambassador, Ilmar Penna Marinho, asked the committee to make its investigation "in Venezuela as well as in Cuba, facilitating to the latter an opportunity to defend itself."

The OAS policy has been one of isolating Cuba from the American republics. Brazil, Mexico, Chile, Uruguay and Bolivia are the only Latin American nations that still have diplomatic relations with the Havana regime.

The council listened politely to Marinho, but no other delegates supported his suggestion.

It appeared unlikely that the committee might want to go to Cuba, suspended from active OAS membership.

Jack Ruby Trial Slated for Feb. 3

DALLAS (AP) — The murder trial of Jack Ruby, charged with killing President John F. Kennedy's accused assassin, yesterday was postponed until Feb. 3.

The postponement was made by State Dist. Judge Joe B. Brown after consultation with state and defense lawyers.

Dist. Atty. Henry Wade and Ruby's defense lawyer, Tom Howard, agreed to the continuance.

The trial date originally had been set for this coming Monday.

Mansfield, Metcalf Propose Measure To Put Kennedy Likeness on Dollar

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sens. Mike Mansfield and Lee Metcalf introduced legislation yesterday providing that standard silver dollars minted from now on carry a likeness of the late President Kennedy.

The two Montana Democrats joined in a letter to Rep. Clarence

Cannon, D-Mo., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, asking to appear when he schedules hearings on one of the President's last official acts. That was a transmittal, dated Nov. 21, the day before his assassination, for funds to mint 50 million silver dollars.

Senate Approves Knowles Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed a $950 million river basin authorization bill yesterday after beating down an attempt to knock out the Knowles Dam and Reservoir Project in western Montana.

The action came on a 59-19 roll call vote.

Sen. Millard L. Simpson, R-Wyo., called for elimination of a $50 million authorization to start the Knowles Project. The proposal was defeated on a voice vote after it was opposed by Sens. Mike Mansfield and Lee Metcalf, Montana Democrats.

Simpson termed the Knowles project a "gold plated monstrosity."

Peace Corps Test Saturday

A Peace Corps placement test will be given Saturday at 8:30 a.m. in the Post Office Building.

The test is a measure of interests and aptitudes, not a test of intelligence or knowledge, according to Peace Corps spokesmen.

Taking the test does not obligate the person to join, Corps officials said. It only serves as an indication of interest and possible areas of qualification in the Peace Corps program.

Currently, 7,164 Peace Corps volunteers are at work in 46 countries, teaching at all school levels, working in community development and agricultural extension and doing construction and engineering work in the host countries.

Additional information on the placement test is available at the Lodge desk.

OLD SOLDIERS NEVER DIE; THEY JUST TRY TO RE-ENLIST

ATLANTA (AP) — The oldest soldier on active duty at Ft. McPherson, M. Sgt. Howard R. Davis, 66, has applied for re-enlistment.

Davis, of Atlanta, is assigned to the 3rd Army Finance Office. This is a far cry from the trenches of France, where he was cited for bravery by Gen. John J. Pershing. He now works with electronic computers and other tools of modern science and technology.
